Introduction

The State Archives of Florida collects, preserves and makes available for research the historically significant records of the state, as well as private manuscripts, local government records, photographs and other materials that complement the official state records. One of the largest and most used sets of records within our holdings are those created by the Florida Legislature. The State Archives of Florida maintains legislative records from 1822 to the present. However, the bulk of materials are legislative committee records from 1969 to the present.

The purpose of this guide is to help you understand and use legislative records at the State Archives. The first section provides background information on legislative committee records and guidance on how to access the records. The second half is a complete list of all legislative holdings at the State Archives of Florida as well as a list of related legislative resources outside of our holdings. Taken together, this guide provides you with the tools necessary to find and use archival records produced by the Florida Legislature.

History

Florida's legislative body dates back to 1822, when President James Monroe and the United States Congress appointed the first legislative council. The council became a bicameral legislature in 1838, with a House of Representatives and a Senate, collectively known as the General Assembly. The State Legislature formed when Florida became a state on March 3, 1845, and voters elected its first State Legislature on May 26, 1845. The first legislative session of the State of Florida commenced that June. The Legislature met biennially in regular session from 1845 to 1969 and annually from 1969 to present day.

The Senate, the upper house of Florida's State Legislature, is composed of one senator from each of Florida's 40 districts. Senators must be at least 21 years of age, be electors and residents of their districts, and have resided in the state for at least two years prior to election. Senators serve four-year terms.

The House of Representatives, the lower house of Florida's State Legislature, is composed of one representative from each of Florida's 120 districts. Representatives must be at least 21 years of age, must be electors and residents of their districts and must have resided in the state for at least two years prior to their election. Representatives serve two-year terms.

In addition to the two main governing bodies, several administrative and support offices exist within the Legislature. These offices operate year-round and assist with all legislative branch activities.
Conducting Legislative History Research with the State Archives of Florida

Introduction

Modern legislative committee records have been preserved since 1969, following the November 1968 voter ratification of the new Florida Constitution and the creation of permanent committee staffs. From 1969 through the mid-1970s, legislative records are not as complete or as well-organized as more recent records. Researchers looking for legislative records from this time period in particular may find that there is little or no information on specific bills. Committee record keeping practices improved after the first few years as they streamlined their system of records creation, storage and transfer to the State Archives. Though this process continues to present day, the Legislature began providing access to committee records through the Senate and House websites. As a result, committee records from 1998 through the most recently completed session are available both at the State Archives of Florida and online.

To research bills at the State Archives from your home, office or other location, please refer to the Off-Site Researchers section. To research bills on site at the State Archives research facility, see the In-Person Researchers section. To research bills from 1998 to the present for which the Legislature makes information available online, see the Online Legislative Materials section. Archives staff cannot provide legal advice or legal interpretation of bill text. Archives staff cannot guarantee that existing records will answer a specific question you may have concerning a bill or law.

What Materials Will You Find When Conducting Legislative History Research

Committee records may include, but are not limited to, bill files; meeting files; staff analyses; audio recordings of meetings; voting and attendance records; sunset/sundown and interim project files; and budget requests.

Staff Analysis: Also called a bill analysis, it is prepared by the staff of each committee of reference. It summarizes the bill and explains the current law affected by the bill, the likely impact of the bill, any constitutional issues raised by the bill, and committee amendments, if any, are summarized (Florida Senate, 2020). There is no guarantee that the staff analysis will answer a specific question concerning a bill or law. This is particularly true if you are interested in only a small portion of a bill. For example, if you are concerned with only one section of a bill that contains dozens or even hundreds of sections, it is unlikely that the staff analysis will provide extensive (or even any) information on this one section. Some bills generate a large amount of paperwork, including numerous, lengthy analyses. The analyses of other bills may be quite brief. Some analyses provide details on why the bill was introduced (i.e. its intent), while others may only explain what the bill was designed to do, with little or no interpretation.
Audio Recordings: Audiotapes, some of which are annotated, containing verbatim records of proceedings of the meetings of the committees and subcommittees.

Sunset/Sundown and Interim Project Files: Materials gathered by staff in evaluating agencies and programs for required review. They may also consist of materials gathered in an interim research project on issues under legislative review.

Legislative Budget Requests: Proposed state agency budgets submitted to the Legislature.

Additional records held by the State Archives may include, but are not limited to:

Floor Debate Recordings: Audiotapes, some of which are annotated, containing verbatim records of all proceedings on the floor of the Senate or House.

Special, Select, Ad Hoc and Joint Committee Records: Minutes, subject files, correspondence, bill files, meeting files, meeting tapes and reports.

Public Service Commission Nominating Council Records: Includes, but is not limited to, minutes, applications, agendas, correspondence and meeting tapes.

Off-Site Researchers

This section of the guide is tailored to patrons researching bills from your home, office or other location. If you are interested in conducting research in person at the State Archives of Florida, please see our In-Person Researchers section. If you are looking for online legislative history materials for bills from 1998 through the present, please refer to the Online Legislative Materials section.

What Information Do You Need to Conduct Research?

In order to conduct legislative research with the State Archives of Florida, you must first determine the chapter law number and/or the bill number you want to research. Legislative committees arrange and file their bill information sequentially by bill number, so Archives staff cannot locate bill files from a statute number. This guide will walk you through how to conduct legislative research, beginning with finding the chapter law number or bill number. If you already know your chapter law or bill number, you can skip to How to Submit a Research Request.

How to Find Chapter Law Numbers and Bill Numbers

When examining a statute on leg.state.fl.us/statutes/ or in a published volume, make a note of the chapter law or laws listed in the history note section. For this example, we will look at Chapter Law 96-153, 1996 / House Bill 959. This example bill can be found in Section 15.0382, Florida Statutes.
Statute history notes will often include multiple chapter law numbers. If multiple numbers are present, you may need to look up the chapter laws in the Laws of Florida in order to determine which chapter law(s) pertain to your research. Chapter laws are formatted as "ch. session year-assigned number." For instance, our example “ch. 96-153” would have been passed in 1996. Laws of Florida from 1822 to the present can be found at http://laws.flrules.org or in a published volume. These chapter law entries will list the corresponding senate or house bill number. Note that if the bill number contains a letter, such as “Senate Bill 20-E,” the bill was part of a special session for that year, such as 2002E.

How to Submit a Research Request

Once you have the chapter law and/or bill number(s) you need to research, you can contact Archives staff by emailing archives@dos.myflorida.com or by calling our reference desk at 850.245.6719. The State Archives of Florida can conduct research and provide copies of legislative history materials in accordance with our fee schedule. We can provide copies of staff analyses and other bill documents and audio recordings, including committee, house floor and senate floor discussions.

Our standard fee for researching and copying legislative bill files is $20.00 per bill for the first 100 pages of copies, with an additional $0.25 per page over 100 pages. This fee is only charged if you would like to obtain copies of the materials. Copies of committee hearings and floor debate recordings can be provided for a fee of $10.00 per cassette or disc.

Archives staff can research up to two bills per patron per day; this allows us to serve all patrons as quickly as possible. We strive for a two business day turnaround on legislative research requests; actual turnaround time will depend on the number of requests and the extent of each request. Due to limited staff, Archives staff cannot listen to audio recordings to provide information on their content.

In-Person Researchers

This section of the guide is designed for patrons conducting legislative research on-site at the State Archives of Florida. To research bills at the State Archives from your home, office or other location, please refer to the Off-Site Researchers section. To research bills from 1998 to the present for which the Legislature makes information available online, see the Online Legislative Materials section.

Conducting research in person waives the $20.00 per bill research fee. The only required fees are $0.25 cents per page for any copies you may want. Taking pictures of materials is allowed in our reference room as long as your flash is disabled.

The State Archives maintains reference files of frequently-researched bills that can be quickly pulled for patrons. If there is no existing reference file for your bill, or if you would prefer to see the original files, this section of the guide can assist you in conducting your research. We recommend that you contact Archives staff prior to your visit by emailing archives@dos.myflorida.com or by calling our reference desk at 850.245.6719. Archives staff can have materials pulled for you in advance and assist you with any questions or concerns.

For information on location, hours, parking and more, please see our webpage on how to plan your visit (https://dos.myflorida.com/library-archives/archives/visit/), or call our reference desk at 850.245.6719.

What Information Do You Need to Conduct Research?

In order to conduct legislative research with the State Archives of Florida, you must first determine the chapter law number and/or the bill number you want to research. It is beneficial to have this information prior to visiting the Archives. Legislative committees arrange and file their bill information sequentially by bill number, so Archives staff cannot locate bill files from a statute number. If you wish to search for chapter law or bill numbers while at the Archives, there are public computers available in our research room as well as wireless internet if you prefer to bring a personal computer.

This guide will walk you through how to conduct legislative research, beginning with finding the chapter law number or bill number. If you already know your chapter law or bill number, you can skip to Researching Staff Analysis or Researching Legislative Audio. Archives staff are available on-site to assist with any questions you may have and to provide copy services.

How to Find Chapter Law Numbers and Bill Numbers

When examining a statute on leg.state.fl.us/statutes/or in a published volume, make a note of the chapter law or laws listed in the history note section. For this example, we will look at Chapter Law 96-153, 1996 / House Bill 959. This example bill can be found in Section 15.0382, Florida Statutes. Chapter laws are formatted as "ch. session year-assigned number. " For instance, our example "ch. 96-153" would have been passed in 1996.
Statute history notes will often include multiple chapter law numbers. If multiple numbers are present, you may need to look up the chapter laws in the Laws of Florida in order to determine which chapter law(s) pertain to your research. Laws of Florida from 1822 to the present can be found at http://laws.flrules.org or in a published volume. These chapter law entries will list the corresponding senate or house bill number. Note that if the bill number contains a letter, such as “Senate Bill 20-E,” the bill was part of a special session for that year, such as 2002E.

Researching Staff Analyses

Published bill histories or “Citators,” available in our research room, provide important information for conducting legislative research. If you plan to visit the Archives, our staff can do this research for you before you visit to have the appropriate materials ready for your arrival. If you prefer to do this research yourself, there are several things you should make note of when reviewing a bill history:
- Note if the bill has a substituted, similar, companion or identical bill. In our example bill, 1996 HB 959, we do have an identical bill, SB 1002. We will need to look at that bill history as well.
- Look at who the bill was "by." If the bill was "by" a committee, make sure to note this committee as one the bill went to. If the bill is "by" an individual, you do not need to make note of them.
- Note which committees the bill(s) went to, written as "on committee agenda/on subcommittee agenda," as highlighted in the examples below. If the history note says "died in committee," "withdrawn," "meeting cancelled" or similar, there will not be information in those committee’s records.

Once you have your list of committees the bill went to, provide this to Archives staff, who can then identify which records need to be pulled for you. Our example bill’s list:

- HB 959 - On Committee: Tourism and Cultural Affairs
- SB 1002 - On Committee: Governmental Reform and Oversight
Researching Legislative Audio Recordings

Bill histories can also provide information on committee and floor audio recordings. As with staff analyses, Archives staff can conduct this research for you and have your recordings pulled prior to your visit. Audio playback equipment is available in the research room. If you prefer to conduct this research yourself, make note of the following from the bill history:

- For committee hearings, look for the dates the bill was on certain committees’ agendas. Note if the committee was a House or Senate committee.
- For House and Senate floor debates, you do not need to make note of the date of “first reading/ read first time.” These first readings are generally just the bill being read, and will not provide further information outside of bill text.
- House and Senate floor debate dates will be listed to the left of lines where the bill was “read second time” and “read third time.” Note if the floor session was in the House or Senate and the date.
- Once you have your list of committees the bill went to, provide the list to Archives staff, who can then identify which records need to be pulled for you.

Our example bill’s list:

- HB 959 - Subcommittee - Arts & Cultural & Historic Resources - 3/13/96
- HB 959 - Committee Tourism & Cultural Affairs - 3/14/96
- HB 959 - House Floor - 3/19/96
- HB 959 - House Floor - 3/21/96
- SB 1002 - Committee Governmental Reform and Oversight - 3/6/96

What Information Do You Need to Conduct Research?

In order to conduct legislative research online, you must first determine the chapter law number and/or the bill number you want to research. This guide will walk you through how to conduct legislative research with resources available online, beginning with finding the chapter law number or bill number relevant to your research. If you already know your chapter law or bill number, you can skip to Staff Analysis and Other Bill Materials or Legislative Audio: The Florida Channel.

How to Find Chapter Law Numbers and Bill Numbers

When examining a statute on leg.state.fl.us/statutes/, make a note of the chapter law or laws listed in the history note section. Statute history notes will often include multiple chapter law numbers. Chapter laws are formatted as “ch. session year-assigned number.” For instance, our example “ch. 96-153” would have been passed in 1996. If multiple numbers are present, you may need to look up the chapter laws in the Laws of Florida in order to determine which chapter law(s) pertain to your research. Laws of Florida from 1822 to the present can be found at http://laws.flrules.org. These chapter law entries will list the corresponding senate or house bill number. Note that if the bill number contains a letter, such as “Senate Bill 20-E,” the bill was part of a special session for that year, such as 2002E.

Staff Analysis and Other Bill Materials

The Senate and House websites maintain bill materials from 1998 to the present. Using 2015 SB 396, Ch. 2015-47 as an example:

1. Navigate to flsenate.gov.
2. Use the bar at the top of the screen to “Go to bill.” Select which session year your bill is from. In our case, we will need 2015. Then enter your bill number. For our example, we will enter 396. Then select “Go.”
3. Look at the bill history to see if there were any substituted, similar, companion or identical bills. If there are, your research can benefit from examining the other bill(s) as well.

4. After navigating to the bill you are researching, you can use the bar toward the middle of the screen to jump to the staff analysis and any other information about the bill you may want to look at.

If you have questions or concerns regarding online legislative history research, please feel free to contact the State Archives of Florida reference desk for assistance.

Legislative Audio: The Florida Channel

Legislative audio recordings from the mid-2000s forward can be found at thefloridachannel.org. If you are unable to find your materials on The Florida Channel, Archives staff can help you conduct research. Please refer to the In-Person Researchers or Off-Site Researchers sections of this guide regarding legislative audio, depending on your research preferences.
In order to search for the recordings, you first need to determine which dates the bill was discussed. For this example, we will walk through bill 2015 SB 396, Ch. 2015-47.

1) Navigate to flsenate.gov.
2) Use the bar at the top of the screen to “Go to bill.” Select which session year your bill is from. In our case, we will need 2015. Then enter your bill number. For our example, we will enter 396. Then select “Go.”

3) Examine the bill history for the dates and times the bill was heard. For committee hearings, look for the dates the bill was “on committee agenda.” For House and Senate floor debates, look for the dates the bill was “read second time” and “read third time.” Note if the floor session was in the House or Senate.
4) Look at the bill history to see if there were any substituted, similar, companion or identical bills. If there are, your research can benefit from examining the other bill as well.
5) Once you have your list of committees the bill went to, you are ready to search for the videos on thefloridachannel.org.

Our list of dates to search for:
- 2/17/15 - Senate Governmental Oversight and Accountability Committee
- 3/4/15 - Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government
- 3/18/15 - Senate Appropriations Committee
- 4/2/15 - Senate Floor
- 4/8/15 - Senate Floor
- 4/21/15 - House Floor
- 4/22/15 - House Floor

6) Search for each date you need on thefloridachannel.org, in the “m/d/yy” format, including the quotation marks. Search through the search results for the appropriate committee or floor.
7) Resources on thefloridachannel.org are not managed or maintained by the State Archives of Florida. If you have questions regarding the site, contact 850.645.9030 or florida@wfsu.org. For technical support for the site, contact TFC-Support@fsu.edu.

Legislative Records at the State Archives of Florida

Below is a list of all legislative record series at the State Archives of Florida. The series are grouped by their specific creator within the Legislature, groupings that archivists refer to as record groups (identified by RG numbers below), and are then listed sequentially by series number (identified by the “S” prefix). The specific creator varies, from the Senate or House of Representatives to individual offices within each governing body.

RG 900: Legislature. Senate.
The Senate, the upper house of Florida's State Legislature, is composed of one senator from each of Florida's 40 districts. Senators must be at least 21 years of age, be electors and residents of their districts, and have resided in the state for at least two years prior to election. Senators serve four-year terms.

S18
Senate
Committee Records, 1964-2017
3,119.25 cubic feet, 33 DVDs

This series contains the records of the committees of the Senate of the State of Florida. The records consist of bill files, meetings files, correspondence files and subject files. Files may contain materials such as committee staff analyses of bills, memoranda, vote sheets, attendance sheets, appearance cards, reports, newspaper clippings and correspondence.

Although the earliest committee materials date from 1964, many committees did not begin maintaining records in an organized manner until the mid-1970s. The quantity and quality of material may vary from committee to committee and by year. By the late 1980s, most committees standardized their recordkeeping. For committee materials up through 2011, see the specific Senate committee. In 2012, the Senate began storing all committee records from one session on one disc. The arrangement of the records at the Archives reflects this shift in arrangement by the creating agency. For committee materials from 2012 to the present, see the records within this series.

S625
Senate
Committee Audio Recordings, 1969-2018
21,825 audio tapes, 4,335 CDs, 7 DVDs, 2 VHS video cassettes

Recordings include full committee, subcommittee and conference committee meetings. The recordings contain discussion of legislation pertaining to each committee's area of specialization. There are no transcripts, but some committee recordings include lists of bills heard. For details, see descriptions under individual Senate committees.

RG 905: Legislature. Senate. Office of the Secretary
The Secretary of the Senate serves as the recording officer of the Senate. Duties associated with the office include enrolling bills, registering lobbyists, signing bills and keeping journals of the proceedings. The Senate designates a secretary to serve at its pleasure.

S50
Senate
Bill Files, 1845-1927
15.5 cubic feet

This series contains legislative bills filed with the Secretary of the Senate. There are several gaps in the series especially between 1899 and 1927.

S217
Senate
Office of the Secretary Committee Files, 1959-1978
23 cubic feet

This series contains committee files maintained by the Office of the Secretary including roll call and voting records, committee reports, bill journals, bill action reports and committee information sheets.

S220
Senate
Executive Session Files, 1877-1967
20.25 cubic feet, 7 volumes

This series contains files generated by the Executive Session of the Florida Senate. The records include correspondence, reports, meeting transcripts, executive orders, suspensions and legal evidence.
S415
Senate
Journals, 1839-1911
40 volumes, .25 cubic foot

This series contains the original handwritten journals of the Territorial and State Senate. Most of the information is in the published journals of the Senate. This series also includes loose journal pages, stored separately.

S1151
Senate
Committee Attendance and Voting Records, 1979-2008
31.5 cubic feet

This series contains attendance records from 1976 to 2008 and voting records from 1984 to 2008. In some instances, the records also include committee recommendations. The Secretary of the Senate maintained these records for the various committees and subcommittees. The attendance records document the legislator and whether they were present or absent from a committee meeting. The voting records document the bill number, meeting date, name of the legislator and how they voted.

S1152
Office of the Secretary
Subject Files, 1925, 1931, 1935, 1945, 1948-1949, 1953
1 cubic foot

This series includes correspondence, reports, budget records, bills and a 1925 specification drawing for the Meridian Marker.

S1238
Senate
Senate Floor Debate Audio Recordings, 1974-2016
12 DVDs, 4470 audio tapes, 231 CDs

This series contains audio recordings of Senate floor debates maintained by the Office of the Secretary. The recordings are the official record of Senate proceedings in regular, special and organizational sessions. The recordings are not transcribed.

S1807
Office of the Secretary
8.75 cubic feet
This series documents the activities of the Constitution Revision commissions of 1977-1978 and 1997-1998. The records contain manuals, journals, summaries, rules, support staff records and minutes. Records also include proposed balloting language and drafting records. Official records of the Commission are contained in several series comprising Record Group 1005.

S1808
Office of the Secretary
Impeachment Records, 1957-1963
3 cubic feet

This series contains records of the proceedings and transcripts of testimony in the impeachment cases of Circuit Judges George E. Holt and Richard Kelly. Judge Holt was impeached by the House for bringing his court into disrepute but was not convicted by a two-thirds vote in the Senate. Judge Kelly was impeached by the House for intimidating and embarrassing people in his court. The Senate trial terminated without a verdict.

RG 906: Legislature. Senate. Office of the President
The President of the Senate is that body’s presiding officer. Members of the Senate elect their president after nomination by the members of their party in caucus. The president has exclusive rights to appoint and remove committee members, to choose committee chairpersons, to influence the placing of bills on the calendar, and in presiding, may influence legislation by accepting or refusing motions.

S157
Office of the President
Committee Files, 1964-1991
79.5 cubic feet

Committee files compiled by the Office of the President include reports from interim, standing and select committees, staff committees, pre-session reports and post-session reports. The series also contains correspondence, memoranda and staff working papers.

S1189
Office of the President
Executive Director Administrative Files, 1970-1972
.5 cubic foot

Administrative files maintained by the executive director in the Office of the President of the Senate include correspondence, reports and memoranda pertaining to the construction and furnishing of the new Senate Office Building.

S1443
Office of the President
This series contains bill files, including Senate bills, House bills and Special Session bills, maintained by the President of the Senate. Each bill file may contain a copy of the bill, committee staff analysis, economic impact statements and other related material.

S2263
Office of the President
1 DVD

Records documenting the activities and conclusions of the 2011 Government Efficiency Task Force include operating rules of the task force, meeting minutes, agendas, audio recordings, member suggestions for increased efficiency and reports detailing their recommendations.

RG 907: Legislature. Senate. Office of General Counsel
The Senate Office of General Counsel provides legal advice and representation to the Florida Senate.

S1934
Office of General Counsel
35 cubic feet, 83 audio tapes, 6 CDs, 24 VHS

This series contains the records of various claims as presented to the Senate General Counsel sitting as Special Master. The Special Master reviewed all the evidence generated and presented to support the claim and made recommendations to the Legislature.

RG 910: Territorial Legislative Council
The first Legislative Council was a unicameral body organized by President James Monroe and the United States Congress on March 30, 1822. Following the practices of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, the first Council was appointed by the President and Congress and consisted of 13 members from Florida's two counties, St. Johns and Escambia. Congress continued to appoint the Council until 1826, when the Council was made elective. Congress provided for a bicameral Legislative Council in 1838, consisting of a House of Representatives and a Senate. The Legislative Council met annually, with the last Council meeting in January 1845.

S876
Territorial Legislative Council
Unicameral Period Records, 1822-1838
3.75 cubic feet
Territorial Legislative Council unicameral period records include bills, records of the proceedings, depositions, special reports, petitions, memorials and vouchers. Undated materials are at the end of the series. The records are spotty and incomplete in their documentation of the activities of the Council. A complete account of the session activities is in the official published journals.

S877
Territorial Legislative Council
Bicameral Period Records, 1839-1845
4 cubic feet

Territorial Legislative Council bicameral period records include bills, records of the proceedings, petitions, depositions, special reports, memorials and vouchers. The records are spotty and incomplete in their documentation of the activities of the Council. A complete account of session activities is in published journals.

S1240
Territorial Legislative Council
Journal, 1831-1836
1 volume

This series consists of a journal containing the proceedings of the Territorial Legislative Council from 1831 to 1836. The journal includes transcriptions of floor debates, motions, petitions, resolutions, proposed bills and other business conducted by the unicameral body. This is the only known existing original journal of the Council.

RG 915: Legislature
Florida’s legislative body dates to 1822, when President James Monroe and the United States Congress appointed the first Legislative Council. Since 1838, the legislative body has been bicameral, with a House of Representatives and a Senate, collectively known as the General Assembly. The State Legislature was formed when Florida became a state on March 3, 1945 and elected its first State Legislature on May 26. Voters from 20 counties elected 17 state Senators and 41 Representatives. The Legislature met in its first session in June 1845. The Legislature met biennially in regular session from 1845 to 1969 and annually since 1969. The districts from which the legislators are elected are reapportioned in the second year after each census, during the regular session. If agreement is not reached, a special apportionment session is called by the governor.

S74
Legislature
Gubernatorial Appointment Nominations for County Office, 1824-1873
.5 cubic foot
These records document nominations made by the governor to the Legislature for county office. Also included are the Legislature's confirmation of nominations proposed by Governors Richard Keith Call and John Branch.

S634
Legislature
Index to Senate and House Bills, 1872, 1885, 1889-1971
131 volumes

This series contains indices to bills introduced in the Senate and the House of Representatives. The indices typically include the following information for a bill: a printed copy of the text, the date of introduction, the committees referred to, and the final disposition. Some of the early records index joint resolutions and Assembly bills.

S887
Legislature
Records, 1845-1911
10 cubic feet

This is an incomplete series documenting the activities of the House of Representatives, the Senate and the General Assembly. The topics covered in these records include the Florida and Georgia boundary dispute, the Secession Convention, Governor Harrison Reed's impeachment investigation, and the governors' messages to the Legislature. The files consist of correspondence, bills, resolutions, committee reports and petitions.

S987
Legislature
Payroll Sheets, 1883
2 items

Payroll sheets of the State Legislature from 1883 include the name of the legislator, number of miles traveled, number of days, rate per day, amount per diem and mileage, post office and signature of each member.

S2353
Legislature
Bobby Watt Sound Recording, 1978
273.02 megabytes

This series contains a digitized sound recording of Bobby Watt's "Toby's Shoeshine Stand" and "Save That Grand Old Lady." Recorded by Sweetbay Records in Tallahassee, Watt wrote and recorded the latter song for the Save the Capitol event.
RG 920: Legislature. House of Representatives
The House of Representatives, the lower house of Florida's State Legislature, is composed of one representative from each of Florida's 120 districts. Representatives must be at least 21 years of age, must be electors and residents of their districts and must have resided in the state for at least two years prior to their election. Representatives serve two-year terms.

S153
